Bingo
A game in which players mark off numbers on cards as the numbers are drawn randomly by a caller, the winner being the first person to mark off five numbers in a row or another required pattern.

1.1 Caller
- The caller will state what pattern or row to get on the card, and it will be shown on the board for the players to see.
- The caller will spin the wheel or cage and state the letter-number combination clearly for everybody to hear (i.e. “B-54”).
- As the letter-number combination is being called, the caller will wait until a player says “BINGO!”
- Once the player shouts “BINGO!”, the caller will put the letter-number combination to the side and have a walker go to the player and read out the player’s letter-number combinations out aloud to them to check for credibility.

1.2 Walker
The walker will go to the player who says “BINGO!”. They will read out the corresponding letter-number combinations to the caller to check for credibility as well as see to make sure the player has the matching pattern stated by the caller in the beginning of the game.

1.3 Player
All players participating MUST have a Bingo Card to partake in the game.
- The player must have the matching letter and number that the caller calls out in order to put down a chip.
- In order for the player to get a BINGO, they must have the matching letter and number along with the pattern that was given.
- Once the player has both requirements they must scream “BINGO!” as fast as possible to be declared as the winner and will later receive a prize.

How a Bingo will be eligible:
- Have the corresponding number-letter combination
- Have the matching pattern that was displayed in the given the round

How a Bingo will be ineligible:
- Not having the corresponding number-letter combination
● Not having the matching pattern or row that was displayed in the given round

2. CARDS

In the very beginning, players will be given one card throughout the whole bingo game. Players are allowed to trade their cards with other players, but only between rounds. They are not allowed to trade during a round of Bingo.
